Urndstreet's Review.

churches in the circle has ever had, churches in the city and adjacent places being well represented by able delegates.

Mrs. M. V. Saunders, of the Woman's Missionary Society of Richmond read a splendid paper, her subject being "Opportunity," which was received with make enthusiasm by all those present. At the close of the reports Mrs. J. R. Gill, of the Orphan Asylum, spoke of her interesting work among the boys. Mrs. J. B. Hutson, the gracious chairman of the reception committee, made a cordial address of welcome, including all the guests of the circle, and wishing them pronounced success in their work.

A very attractive program was rendered by the Sunshine Committee, opened by Misses Jewel Schools and Carrie Hetzer. Miss Kathleen Parrish, Miss Louise Hetzer and Miss Dimple Schools greatly pleased their hearers, and Miss Cecil Page, the youngest, member of the Sunshine Committee, gave a splendid recitation. Miss Annie Cosby rendered the "Sparrow Song," and Miss May Felvey closed the program with The Last Hymn."

Delicious refreshments were served by these attractive young girls, all decorations being in white and green, carnations, paims and maiden-hair ferns being used, while white candles, with green shades, in silver candelsars, furnished the illumination. All the guests of the circle spent a most enjoyable and profitable evening.

Judge White Said to Contemplate Makling an Investigation.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]

NORFOLK, VA. March 12.—While it has not been announced publicly and no action has yet been taken by the court, it is more than probable however, that Judge White, presiding in the Norfolk county Circuit Court, will shortly call for an investigation of the Justices of the Peace of Norfolk county, or a portion of them.

It comes from good authority that Judge White will shortly examine the official reports of the magistrates of the county as filed with the court of their work during each month, and, should it appear that there are any irregularities, they will be reported to the Commonwealth's Attorney, with instructions that they be investigated.
